Registration in Moodle and course search
(Moodle Version 3.9)

1. Registration in Moodle

In order to use Moodle, you need a personal account. Members of the RUB can log in directly with your LoginID and the corresponding password (1).

Members of the TU Dortmund University and the University of Duisburg-Essen can log in with their university user ID via the UA RUHR Login (2).

Members of other universities must first register by clicking on „Log in“ (3), choose „create new account“ and conscientiously filling in the registration data. You can then log in as described above.

2. Find courses in Moodle

You can find the Moodle course you want to enroll in either directly by searching the course catalog or by using the course search (on the right side of the home page after login). You can enter the course name or the event number as the search term.

3. Enrol in courses
Once you click on the course name of the course you are looking for, you will be taken to the enrollment options. For most courses a password is required. This is usually announced by the instructor at the first face-to-face session or sent via email.
Alternatively, the instructor can manually enroll students in the course. The course will then be displayed on your start page.

4. Unenrol from courses
If you want to deregister from your Moodle course during the semester or after the event, you can do so under Settings. If you want to rejoin this course at a later time, your previous grades will be retrievable, i.e. they will not be deleted by logging out.
